

Let's Invest in San Diego County

◀ MAKE IT FAIR ▶

We must close the commercial property tax loophole in California and make corporations pay their fair share.

Millionaires, billionaires, and big corporations across California get a tax break worth up to $9 billion every year. In San Diego County alone we can restore up to $804 million per year, and use $299 million of it for community services with the rest going to public education.

Imagine all we can invest in with $299 million each year:

Educate 10,000 more children in public, high-quality preschool.

More than 11,500 children are eligible for public preschool programs in San Diego, but not enrolled.

Build affordable housing for 2,200 more people.

Over 10 years, this alone would house 6% of low income people who need affordable housing to live and work here.

Offer free job training to 14,000 more people.

About 73,500 people in San Diego County are unemployed.

Cover the costs for 25,000 more people to receive health care at community clinics.

Build 800 supportive housing units for the homeless.

Supportive housing provides shelter, counseling, and medical services. More than 9,116 people experience homelessness in San Diego.

About the Loophole

Prop 13 was passed to keep property taxes from rising faster than the incomes of homeowners, but a loophole allows big corporations and rich commercial real estate investors to avoid paying their fair share. Make It Fair closes this loophole and guarantees Prop 13 remains in effect with no changes for homeowners and residential renters.
